

I would prefer that no federal regulation for telephone privacy be enacted that would diminish the effect of Indiana's state Telephone Privacy law. Therefore, I hope the FCC will not pre-empt the Indiana law in any way. Prior to enforcement of the Indiana law, we would receive at least 2 or 3 calls a night from solicitors of all sorts; usually we received even more on the weekends. Since we were put on the Indiana "Do Not Call" list, we generally receive no more than 2 or 3 per week. It has been a very effective law which has made life much more pleasant in our home and family. I don't have a lot of time at home with my 4 children, so I cannot overstate the value of the state law to me and my family. I am sure that others in the state feel the same way. Please do not make us regress to a time when we were inundate with unwanted, and often rude conversations and solicitations. Thanks for your consideration on this important matter. - Roger L. Noble
